
Testable means a common genetic variant exists that measurably changes the target's activity in blood, so the target's effect on disease can be estimated from human genetics. A further 12 targets (1.9%) could not be matched to a gene record and are excluded from the three groups above.
Reproduce: python src/cv_atlas.py ; python src/make_figures.py